This will be followed by the responsive reading of the Fifty-first Psalm, and the announcements and offering. The sermon subject of the Rev. R. A. Mitchell will be "Mother," taken from the text "Honor Thy Father and Mother." The services at the M. E. Church, South will close with a hymn and the benediction.

This will be followed by a mymn and the Apostles Creed, said by the pastor and the congregation standing. The anthem "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace" will follow the morning prayer. "Gloria Patri" will be sung by the congregation standing, and this will be followed by the Scripture reading and offertory, "The Old Mother." Mr. Gaugh will then sing "Mother Machree." MAKE PLANS FOR HIGHWAY

TO IMPROVE ROADS TO ALL THREE CEMETERIES.

ORGANIZATION FORMED

John P. Price Is Chosen President and Burt M. Rowley Secretary—Meeting Held Last Night.

Preliminary plans for the improvement of the roads to Miriam, St. Mary's and St. Patrick's cemeteries, were made at a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce office last night.

James B. Cummins was chosen to perfect some kind of an organization to improve permanently the roads leading to these cemeteries.

Representatives from the Odd Fellows lodge, St. Mary's Church, St. Patrick's Church, American Legion, Polk Township board and Nodaway County court were present at the meeting last night.

The township board has agreed to do all the work in getting these roads in first-class shape for the permanent surfacing.

Mr. Cummins, temporary chairman of the meeting last night, called for an expression from each one present as to their views regarding means of getting all these roads in first class shape. It was brought out that the cost of concrete would be prohibitive, as it would require approximately $18,000 to put a concrete surface on the total mileage of about three-quarters of a mile. Gravel or crushed rock was considered the most feasible material for the work.

John P. Price was elected president of the permanent organization, known as the Cemetery Road Improvement Association. Burt M. Rowley was chosen as secretary of the organization. A committee, composed of representatives from the groups present last night, was appointed to work out plans for the work and the raising of the necessary funds. This committee will report next Thursday night.

ARE LOSERS IN 2 DEBATES

A CLOSE DECISION FOR KIRKSVILLE TEACHERS

SPRINGFIELD VICTORS

Unanimous Decision Given to Southwest Teachers at Cape Girardeau Yesterday.

Both the debating teams, representing the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, in the first of a four-year series of debates, lost their arguments yesterday with teams of other Teachers' Colleges. At Cape Girardeau the affirmative debate team of the local Teachers' College was defeated by the debaters of the Southeast Teachers College from Springfield by a unanimous decision and the negative debate team lost at Warrensburg to the debaters of the Northeast Teachers of Kirksville by a three to two decision.

The Northwest Missouri State Teachers' College debate team, comprised of Melvin Rogers and Clarence Bush, lost by a three to two decision to the debaters of Northeast Missouri State Teachers' College. The debate was held last night at the Central Teachers' College, Warrensburg.

The Maryville debaters had the negative side of the question: "Resolved that Congress, by a two-thirds vote, should be given power to override decisions of the Supreme Court declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional."

The debaters from Kirksville, who won by the close decision over the local debate team, were a Mr. Loe and a Mr. Vogelgesong.

Five members of the faculty of the Central State Teachers' College, Warrensburg, were judges of the debate.

Word was received this morning from St. Louis from the debate team that opposed the Southeast Missouri State Teachers' College last night, that the local debaters lost by a unanimous decision.

Richard Baker and Burdette Yeo were the Maryville debaters and they upheld the affirmative side of the same question that was debated here yesterday and at Warrensburg. The Springfield debate team was made up of Clyde Miller and Ira Fisher.

J. R. Wallin, instructor in social sciences at the College, accompanied the team to Cape Girardeau and Homer T. Phillips of the College faculty went with the team to Warrensburg. Prof. Harry Miller, debate coach, was unable to go with either of the teams as he presided at the debate held at the College auditorium yesterday between Cape Girardeau and Warrensburg.

This is the first of a series of debates among the five Teachers' Colleges of the state. At the end of four years the College having won the most points will be awarded a trophy.

Called by Sister's Illness.

God's Greatest Gift

Tomorrow the thoughts of a reverent nation will turn as one to that Shrine, ennobled by love, endeared by sacrifice and enriched by faith—the Shrine of Motherhood.

Whether in the mansion of the city, or the old-fashioned home of the country, mothers mean the same throughout the world. By their kindly and wise guidance, civilization has advanced from the dark ages of the past to the ultra-modern days of the present.

When the final history of all the good and the great, with their struggles and achievements, is given to mankind, through its pages will course, like running water, the silent spirit and blessed influence of God's greatest masterpiece—a mother.

Elmo Shipping Assn. Will Be Incorporated

Members of Organization Meet Last Night and Vote for Non-Stock, Non-Profiting Incorporation

About seventy-five members of the former Elmo Shipping Association, which had at one time a membership of 200, met last night at Elmo and voted favorably for incorporation. They voted to incorporate under the non-stock, non-profit act of 1923 and decided to make the membership fee $10.

The directors of the old organization were authorized as an incorporating board of directors for the new corporation and given authority to draw up articles of incorporation to be filed for record and request the state to issue a charter.

The board of directors is made up of Asa Akins, O. E. James, Ed Graham, Frank Bowman, E. K. Bailey, E. B. Hamilton and Frank Campbell. J. J. Russell, the present manager, who has been employed on a commission basis, will probably be retained.

The Shipping Association has a building at Elmo and engaged in the business of selling feed, buying cream and eggs and shipping livestock.

Under the new organization the profits will be prorated on a patronage dividend basis among the members. The board of directors will decide a plan for procuring members and for the means of paying membership fees. The board will meet at some time next week to select four others and they with the board, will fill out a request for incorporation.

True D. Morse of the Extension Service and J. Ross Fleetwood, county agent, were present at the meeting last night. Mr. Morse explained the system of incorporation and advised as to the method of procedure for incorporating.

STUDENT HELD FOR SLAYING

E. G. DILLON QUESTIONED ABOUT FATHER'S DEATH.

BENEFICIARY $15,000

Registrar K. U. Says Young Dillon Registered There On Forged Credits From St. Louis.

St. Louis, May 9.—Edward G. Dillon, 19-year-old University of Kansas student, held for questioning in connection with the death of his father, Dr. William A. Dillon, former honorary member of the Washington University faculty, today remained silent as to his whereabouts on the night of his father's death.

Young Dillon, who less than a year ago was released after being questioned as a suspected highway robber, was taken into custody late last night, climaxing an intensive investigation by detectives into the slaying of the elder Dillon, whose bullet-riddled body was found on the Washington University campus last week.

"I will not talk until my lawyers have studied the situation and advised me," the boy told police repeatedly during twelve hours of constant grilling during which he remained calm.

Prominent in the St. Louis younger social set, young Dillon was the beneficiary to the extent of $15,000 to his father's insurance, the most recent policy of $5,000 having been taken out by the well-known surgeon just eight days before his death.

Lawrence, Kans., May 9.—Edward G. Dillon, held in St. Louis for questioning in connection with the death of his father, Dr. William A. Dillon, was not officially a student at the University of Kansas, John R. Dyer, dean of men, said this morning. Young Dillon came to the University at the beginning of the second semester. His high school credits were found insufficient and he was dropped, Dean Dyer said.

"There is nothing against him here except the lack of entrance requirements," Dean Dyer said. "The boy was not at the University long enough to come lately to the attention of the authorities. He left the University early in April, according to the College records."

Young Dillon was last seen in Lawrence, Kansas on the morning of May 1 at 10 o'clock. He had been there on April 28, students said.

The boy was infatuated with a woman student and at one time he sent her twenty-four dozen roses, according to the men who knew him.

George O. Foster, registrar of the University, said that after young Dillon presented himself for registration on January 27, it was found that he had forged his records at the University High School at St. Louis by which he had entered St. Louis University as a first year student.

Dillon admitted this, saying that he had the forgery committed and had not done it himself, Mr. Foster said. The forgery was discovered in an investigation of the transcript of Dillon's records at St. Louis, according to the registrar.

On Marrh 17 Dillon was suspended on his promise to return to the St. Louis High school and make up his credits. He was never expelled, the registrar said, and was never an official student at the University. University authorities thought he had left Lawrence until the episode of the roses brought him to their notice again.

UNPOPULAR IN WASHINGTON

The nation beyond the city limits of the national capital has long been aware of, and wondered at, the unpopularity of the presidents with the natives of the District of Columbia. When they have inquired as to the reason the most they have been able to learn was that the greater the president's prestige in the nation at large the greater his unpopularity at Washington.

The situation remained very much of an unsolved mystery until a few months after the inauguration of President Coolidge. He has afforded a real clue to the enigma. Finding that President Coolidge has furthered the cause of national thrift far beyond that attempted or achieved by any of his predecessors and that President Coolidge is in very poor favor with the citizens of Washington the public, which knows the national capital only as tourists visitors, has inferred that the people of Washington prefer men in the White House who are good spenders of the public monies.

But can the District of Columbia be blamed for their irregularity? A thrifty president means fewer jobholders spending lowered salaries in Washington, a non-spectacular inauguration with few visitors and no state occasions to draw sightseers. Washington appreciates a president who spends the nation's money to bring more jobholders and visitors to the capital city. The high public favor in which President Coolidge held throughout the nation outside the national capital suggests that the nation likes a president whom Washington dislikes.

Fifty Years Ago

(Taken from the Nodaway Democrat May 6, 1875).

Will we ever have spring, and is the order of the seasons reversed? This is the anxious question of everyone nowadays. The general impression seems to be that winter has got in her lap again and that gentle spring once more lost the bubble reputation.

The north end of Main street is being opened up. This was an improvement long needed as Main street is one of the principle thoroughfares leading into our town.

Frank Bellows, Esq., left Monday evening for the East, with his fast trotting horse, "Charley Thompson" to be gone most of the summer. He will make the rounds of Saratoga and other fashionable and popular race resorts before his return.

Says the Andrew County Republican: "We are reliably informed that in various parts of Andrew County the young grasshoppers have made their unwelcome appearance in vast numbers. A few weeks ago, and before the truth was ascertained, the hope was felt that the severity of the winter had destroyed the eggs.

William J. Leishman, the tonsorial artist, who came into our city about two weeks ago, was married last Friday evening to Miss Amanda Sell, at the residence of John Hobart, Esq., by Elder Huntley. This is the fastest time on record in our city. It is usually considered that six months or a year's time is necessary to consummate the matrimonial union.

At the spelling match that takes place this evening at Union Hall an unabridged dictionary will be awarded the winner. Sir Walter Scott's poem, elegantly bound, worth $3 will be given as the second premium by R. H. Arnold, Esq. A leather medal will be presented the speller who first misses a word. Here is a chance for all.

A large number of dwelling houses are being erected throughout the limits of the city.

A number of new and tasty paling fences are being built around several of our town dwellings this spring.

The sidewalk around the public square is about completed.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Twenty-five students will graduate from the Maryville Seminary this year. President C. F. Enyart of the Seminary will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, June 4. Rev. Homer Cook, pastor of the Baptist Church, will give the class address Thursday evening, June 8. If the Northwest Normal School should be located in Maryville the Seminary property will go to the Normal committee. In all probability these graduating exercises will be the last given by the Seminary.

Tom Stinson returned Monday morning from Chicago where he had been about eight months working for Swartzchild & Sulzberger.

L. E. Riegel, who has been foreman of the M. Nusbaum cigar factory for some time, has purchased same and has changed the name to "The Purity Cigar Factory."

Rev. Homer Cook, the Baptist minister, will preach the memorial sermon and Rev. William Sapp will deliver the decoration day address at Maryville. Commander John Evans, John Evans, Judge S. R. Beach and R. M. Campbell are the committee on arrangements for decoration day.

The outlook is that West First and West Second streets will be paved this summer. The matter came before the board Friday night.

Mrs. P. G. Airy's piano pupils will appear in a recital at her home on North Mulberry street Friday evening.

The lightning in Tuesday evening's storm struck one of the fireplace chimneys in the fine new J. B. Robinson home on West Third street.

The damage amounts to about $300. The bricks were sent in every direction, one of them going through a window in the home of Dr. Bradbury.

Some of the Comments About the Nemspaper Merger at Maryville

(Braymer Bee).

The Maryville Democrat-Forum has bought the Tribune of that place, and the two papers will be consolidated. We congratulate Maryville and her business interests on this new order of things for Maryville, or any other city of its size can get the service it ought to have out of two papers without too great an expense.

(Burlington Junction Post.)

Announcement was made in the Saturday issue of the Maryville papers that the Democrat-Forum had purchased the Tribune and that after that date Maryville would have but one newspaper.

Fred Hull of the Tribune retains his printing plant and will conduct an exclusive job printing business.

Newspaper consolidations, especially in the small city daily field, have been numerous of late, and the big wonder is that the consolidation has not come earlier in Maryville, which is perhaps the smallest city in the state that has supported two dailies for any length of time. These consolidations have become necessary of late because of the heavy expense and investment required to conduct a newspaper business.

(Skidmore News).

The two daily papers at Maryville were consolidated last week when the Democrat-Forum purchased the Maryville Tribune and the first paper under the consolidation was published Monday of this week.

Fred Hull, publisher of the Tribune, has been connected with that paper for a number of years and his writings will be greatly missed by the newspaper men of the state and especially so by the republicans in Northwest Missouri.

James Todd, manager of the Democrat-Forum, will continue in that capacity and from past records will publish a paper that will efficiently serve this part of the state. Mr. Todd has been connected with the newspaper interest in Maryville most all of his life, taking up the work after his father.

The merger of these two dailies has been looked forward to by the business interests at Maryville, for a number of years. It was necessary that advertising appear in both papers and in many instances both papers were received in the same home. The merger will also be of benefit to many of the subscribers who have been taking both papers.

(Holt County Sentinel).

The Sentinel regrets the retirement of Mr. Hull from the newspaper business, but it is a pleasure to know that his business has been absolved by our good friend, Jim Todd. Both are outstanding figures in the state among the newspaper fraternity, and we presume it will not be long until Fred Hull is back in the harness somewhere again.

There is a nation-wide movement on among the newspapers to consolidate, thus making them the stronger and more capable of serving their communities.

(Andrew County Democrat).

Mr. Todd and Mr. Hull are both excellent newspaper men. Mr. Hull is now postmaster of Maryville and deserves any honor the public may give him. He is able and worthy to be Missouri's next governor. He has superior ability as an organizer, and patience and gentleness are two needful attributes that he possesses to an unusual degree.

(Hopkins Journal).

The Maryville Tribune has passed into history, the paper being purchased last week by the Maryville Democrat-Forum. While we regret very much to lose Fred Hull and the inspiration received by reading his paper, yet the consolidation is a most sensible move as one paper can cover the Maryville field and cover it more satisfactorily, as well with less expense, than two. Jim Todd, like Fred Hull, has proven his worth in the newspaper field and the people of Maryville as well as the county will not have cause to complain of being "gipped" by the consolidation, the tendency now being fewer, but better papers. Of course, Fred Hull is not going to leave Maryville—he is postmaster and will also continue to operate a job printing plant in the Tribune building as well as do special writing for metropolitan papers. He's public spirited by nature and will always be found helping to advance the best interests of his town, county and state.

(Gallatin North Missourian)

The Maryville Tribune and the Democrat-Forum have been merged, giving Maryville only one newspaper. There is a strong tendency toward newspaper consolidation, and the Maryville merger is a result of this demand of a larger and better newspaper at the lowest possible cost. J. Fred Hull, former Gallatin citizen, who has edited the Daily Tribune for 15 years, retains the mechanical equipment and will conduct a job printing plant. Mr. Hull is also postmaster at Maryville. The Democrat-Forum will continue to have as its editor, James Todd, and Maryville is assured a good, wide-awake newspaper in the combined Democrat-Forum.

(Mound City News Jeffersonian).

In May 2nd issues of the Maryville Tribune and of the Democrat-Forum, announcement is made of the consolidation of these two papers. The May 2nd issue of the Tribune was its last, that paper having been sold to the Democrat-Forum, which takes over the subscription list and business of the Tribune.

Fred Hull, editor of the Tribune the past sixteen years, publishes in his paper one of the finest valedictories it has ever been our pleasure to read. There is a note of pathos on the situation; an editor becomes attached to his paper in such a manner that it becomes to him a living, thinking individual. To him each day's or each week's edition is scanned and critized as one individual might make a mental inventory of another, and is judged according to its merits or demerits. The editor tries to see his paper through the eyes of its readers, and says to himself, "This is a pretty good paper," or, "I'll have to confess the paper is a litle below par this week."

And so, as the last edition of the old Tribune went to press, a paper that has been a household word throughout the lives of many Nodaway county folks now grown to maturity, it is no wonder that our friend Fred Hull, naturally a forceful and fluent writer, gives his readers an eloquent farewell message.

Man Eating Shark Breaks Into Movies

Man-eating sharks are some times easier to direct before the camera than human actors!

This is the unusual claim of George Fitzmaurice, veteran screen director, whose Goldwyn production "A Thief in Paradise" comes to the Empire Theater next Monday and Tuesday.

One of the most deadly variety of sharks plays an important part in the opening episode of the story of "A Thief in Paradise," and Fitzmaurice personally "directed" the denizen of the sea in the incident.

The shark incident opens the gripping story of "A Thief in Paradise," which Doris Kenyon, Ronald Colman and Aileen Pringle are the principal players.

WHERE ARE WE GOING?

Senator McLean (Conn.): Make it for a year. That will give us sufficient time.

Senator Norris (Nebr): Let it stand like any other law until it is repealed by a subsequent law. Make it for all eternity.

Mr. McLean: That is going further than I think I can accompany the Senator.

Mr. Norris: The Senator is on that road. He is going, and I expect to go, too, and I would enjoy his company.

Mr. McLean: We will not vote on postal revenue bills when we do go.

Mr. Norris: I am afraid our paths may diverge.

Mr. McLean: I hope so.

Mr. Norris: I do, too. I agree with the Senator, I would not like to travel on his road, not that I would not enjoy his company—I like him—but I do not like the place where he is going.

If we mean what we asy—

Mr. Borah (Idaho): We do not.

Mr. Norris: . . . . Everybody in this body knows we do not mean it. If we were in earnest about it, we would strike out that limitation.

Mr. Borah: When the Senator from Idaho said that the Senator did not mean what he said, I meant that when he was talking to the Senator from connecticut as to where he was going he did not mean what he said.

Mr. Norris: I do not want to discuss where the Senator from Connecticut is going. That might be embarrassing, and I do not want to hold up any bad picture before any one of any location. Not only that, but no matter where he is going or how fast he is going, it is never too late to repent.—The Nation's Business.

Lorance C. Catterson, who had filed exceptions to the report of a special commission that viewed his land north of town, which the State Highway Department condemned and used for a curve, withdrew his exceptions to the report of the committee. Mr. Catterson recently settled with the county court, being awarded $230 damages.

McCaffrey was appointed guardian ad litem for minor defendants, Joseph, Irene, Esrone, Harold, Eldore, Douglas, Homer and Emery Tibbetts, and decree for partition by sale of lands awarded.

In re: estate of Jesse A. Ingram, deceased, ex parte, decree per forum filed and orderd that judgmnt be certified to the Probate Court of Nodaway County.

The condition of C. D. Hooker, who has been confined to his home on North Main street since late last fall, has not been so favorable the last few days. His condition is considered critical.

Because the feet of American women are apparently much smaller than those of the women in the Near Eastern countries, American women contributing to the Near East relief were asked not to send their old shoes, or in fact any new ones. H. C. Jacquith, director of the American refuge work in Greece, paid a delicate compliment to American women in explaining why women's shoes were not acceptable, because they were generally too small.

128th Field Artillery of which Battery C is Unit is Oldest One in Missouri

The 128th Field Artillery, located mostly in northern Missouri with headquarters at Columbia, and under the command of Colonel John F. Williams, is the oldest military organization in the State. This regiment is the outgrowth of a battery of artillery organized in St. Louis during the war of 1812.

When this war was declared Governor Benjamin Howard resigned to accept a command of Missouri troops, which devoted much of their time, during the balance of the war period, to driving out the Indians from northern Missouri, where their frequent depredations in the territory was a constant menace to the white settlers.

The 128th Field Artillery Regiment of today occupies a section of the State which just previous to the organization of the present regiment, was occupied by the Fourth Missouri Infantry.

The Fourth Missouri Infantry was organized March 1, 1891, with companies located at Brookfield, Mound City, Linneus, Bethany, Richmond, St. Joseph and Savannah.

An election of regimental officers for the Fourth Missouri Infantry was held at St. Joseph, April 2, 1891, resulting as follows: J. A. Arbuthnot, Colonel; Max Monheim, Lieutenant-Colonel and Chancey H. Graves, Major.

Few of the towns at which companies were originally organized as a part of the Fourth Infantry are now represented in the 128th Field Artillery, and many other towns, where units of this regiment were maintained, at one time or another, since the date of organization, are no longer numbered among those active in the maintenance or National Guard units.

While recognized as the Fourth Missouri Inf., companies from time to time have been located at Brookfield, Unionville, Linneus, St. Joseph, Richmond, Maryville, Milan, Montgomery City, Mexico, Savannah, Chillicothe, Jefferson City, Macon, Louisiana, Slater, Albany, Warransburg, Princeton, Liberty, Poplar Bluff, Fulton, Caruthersville, Fredericktown, Kirksville, Hannibal, Columbia, Carrollton, Weston, Mound City and Kansas City.

A band was organized at Maryville in 1915. The original band of the Fourth Infantry was organized in 1895 and mustered out of service in 1897.

Two provisional companies, Hannibal and Carrollton, representing the regiment, attended the dedication of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1892.

The regiment also participated in the dedicatory exercises of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis in 1903, and was encamped on the grounds of the Exposition from October 5th to October 15th, participating in the celebration of the Missouri Day on October 11, 1904.

The regiment volunteered for service in the Spanish American War and was mustered into federal service May 16, 1898 at Jefferson Barracks. On May 25, 1898 it moved to Camp Alger, Virginia, where it was assigned to the Second Brigade of the Second Division, Second Army Corps. It was later brigaded with the Fourth Pennsylvania and the Sixth Illinois. In August, 1898, it moved to Camp Meade, Maryland, where it remained until moved to Greenville, South Carolina in November. It was finally mustered out of federal service at Camp Wetherill, South Carolina, February 10, 1899.

The following companies constituted the North Missouri regiment when it volunteered for service in the Spanish-American War: Company A (Carrollton), Captain Joseph A. Black; Company B (Mound City), Captain Edwin E. King; Company C (St. Joseph), Captain Max Monheim; Company D (Bethany), Captain Joseph F. Slinger; Company E (Maryville), Captain Ira V. McMillan; Company F (Hannibal), Captain Louis Loeser; Company G (St. Joseph), Captain Jacob S. Casey; Company H (Chillicothe), Captain Frank S. Miller; Company I (St. Joseph), Captain Charles F. Keller; Company K (St. Joseph) Captain Neil T. Sommer; Company L (Warrensburg), Captain Henry A. Peed; Company M (Fulton), Captain Jesse M. Owen.

The field officers were: Colonel Joseph A. Corby, Lieutenant-Colonel William P. Burham, Major William E. Stringfellow, Major Wilson S. Hendrick, Major Clay C. MacDonald.

On the return of the regiment from the Spanish-American War, it was reorganized with the following field officers: Colonel William E. Stringfellow, Lieutenant-Colonel Wilson S. Hendrick, Major Clay C. MacDonald. On September 5, 1912, Colonel Stringfellow was commissioned a brigadier general and placed upon the retired list. Major Clay C. MacDonald was elected colonel of the regiment September 21, 1912; on October 14, 1914, at his own request he was mode Lieutenant-Colonel and Lieutenant-Colonel John D. McNeeley was commissioned colonel of the regiment October 18, 1914.

On June 23, 1916, the regiment reported at the State mobilization camp at Nevada, under order of the President, for duty on the Mexican Border. It departed for the Border July 4, 1916, and reach Laredo, Texas, July 6, 1916. It remained on duty in the Laredo District until February 21, 1917, when it moved to Fort Riley, Kansas, and was mustered out of federal service on February 28, 1917.

In 1917, following the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany, the entire Missouri National Guard was inducted into federal service.

The North Missouri Regiment, together with other Missouri regiments was mobilized at Camp Clark, at Nevada, Missouri, in August. It remained there two months and then was moved to the concentration camp at Camp Doniphan, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where the entire regiment was attached to the 35th Division.

Most of the troops were in England for about two weeks. From England they moved to France, landing there May 17, 1918. After a brief period of training in France, the division was attached to the Second Army Corp.

Later articles will take up more in detail the early history of the organized military forces in north Missouri and active duty of troops from this section in the Spanish-American War, on the Mexican border and in France. A history of the 128th Field Artillery, beginning with the organization of the battery or artillery in St. Louis, in 1812, with the various vicissitudes affecting it, through the Doniphan Expedition, the Mexican War, Civil War, and Spanish-American War, up to its augmentation into a full regiment for duty in France, will be succeedants.

NEXT WEEK IN MISSOURI HISTORY

—Compiled By—
The State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia.
Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary
May 10-15.

Sixty-four years ago (1861) on the tenth day of May the Civil War opened in Missouri with the capture of Camp Jackson. No other event was more pregnant in results. It was the doomsday of peace in Missouri. It set an end to compromise between Northern and Southern men. It gave birth to an aggressive Union and a determined State's rights policy. It made Frank P. Blair and Nathaniel Lyon the most loved and respected, the most hated and feared men in the State. It was the beginning of Lyon's three month military career in Missouri which ended at Wilson's Creek in a martyr's death. From May 10, 1861 to April 9, 1865, Missouri was an armed camp.

Camp Jackson had an existence of one week. Pursuant to the order of Governor Claiborne F. Jackson, the state militia companies in St. Louis City and county assembled on May 3rd for their annual encampment. They pitched tents in Lindell Grove, a wooded valley near Olive Street and Grand Avenue. The Camp, named in honor of Governor Jackson, was under command of Brigadier General D. M. Frost, who was suspected of designing capture of the United States Arsenal in St. Louis. He had received arms from the South. The seizure of the Arsenal at Liberty only three weeks before lent color to the suspicions of the Union forces. Disguised as a woman General Lyon examined Camp Jackson and noted that the streets were named "Davis Avenue," "Beauregard Avenue" and the like.

On May 10th, General Lyon with his United States troops and Union Home Guards marched against the camp and demanded its surrender within thirty minutes. To the chagrin and disappointment of many, the State forces offered no resistance.

The first casualty of the capture of Camp Jackson was the leader of the victorious Union forces. After reading General Frost's message of surrender General Lyon was kicked in the stomach by the horse of one of his aides. He was knocked unconscious and for several minutes his subordinate officers directed the surrender of the State troops.

Excitement was unbounded as the militia passed between the lane of Union soldiers and for three hours stood unarmed. Taunts were flung by southern sympathizers at the St. Louis "Dutch." Missiles followed, then shots. The story runs that a Union soldier was killed, a captain wounded. Their comrades began firing on the mob. A number were killed, including two women and a child. The command came to stop firing, but too late to correct the blunder or lessen the terror of a frantic populace. Crowds with banners patrolled the streets. Public meetings were prohibited, windows were barred, and drinking places closed. Disaster had become calamity. That night found St. Louis more unsettled, more fearful of the future, than ever in its life of a century. The next day and the day after saw at river and wharf and railroad station the exodus of thousands. Rumor distorted fact and hurriedly overspread the city and State.

In Jefferson City the news, magnified to include a Union army under Blair and Lyon advancing west, brought consternation. When Governor Jackson entered the house of Representatives that evening he handed a dispatch to Representative George G. Vest. The future United States senator sprang upon a chair and thrilled his hearers by reading what "Frank Blair, Capt. Lyon and the Dutch" had done. In a few minutes the Legislature passed a law authorizing the governor to suppress rebellion and repel invasion. Bells were rung and the Legislature heavily armed, met in extraordinary session at midnight. A force was sent to burn the railroad bridge across the Osage. Before the rumor of marching troops had been exploded, part of the work of destruction had been executed.

Men undecided in their allegiance to Union or State, now became partisans. Some like General Sterling Price, former Governor and a power in public life, went with their State; others came under the Union banner. The Harney-Price agreement followed on May 21st, and the Planters' House conference on June 11th. But war had come. Compromise and conference were futile. General Lyon had cut the political knot in Missouri.

FLAYS BAKER AND RESIGNS

POLITICS RETURNED TO ELEEMOSYNARY BOARD, HE SAYS.

HANNIBAL MAN IS OUT

Party's Pledges To Keep State Institutions Under Nonpartisan Management Under Foot, Rendlen Says.

Hannibal, Mo., May 8.—Declaring that Governor Sam A. Baker has caused the removal of "efficient and faithful employes without charge or cause except to make room for others, no reason being advanced save that the new appointees were kinsmen or political supporters," Charles E. Rendlen, Hannibal lawyer, yesterday tendered his resignation to the governor as a member of the state eleemosynary board, effective at once.

Rendlen's resolution removes the the last of the three board members who opposed the dismissal of Clyde Graves, Democrat, steward of the state hospital for insane at St. Joseph, and the appointment in his place of George Gilpin, Republican, a brother-in-law of Governor Baker, and other changes proposed by the governor. W. C. Pierce of Maryville was eliminated when the governor withdrew his name from his appointment list last winter and A. J. Fitzsimmons of St. Louis resigned later. Following the reorganization of the board Gilpin was appointed and other changes were made in the state institutions. Rendlen and Pierce are Republicans and Fitzsimmons is a Democrat.

Party's Pledge Under Foot.

His letter of resignation charges Governor Baker "put the party's pledge under foot." The letter follows:

I find myself entirely out of accord with the policies of your administration in the management and control of the six state eleemosynary institutions, on the board of control of which I am a member.

In 1921 a long-desired change in the management of these institutions was enacted into law; regardless of party, the entire people approved it. The new consolidated board of three Republicans and three Democrats was placed in charge and immediately set about removing party control and political favoritism therefrom. Merit and service was the test. So faithful was adherence to this ideal, which is the law, that the late retiring governor emphasized with just pride the nonpartisan board. Upon your elevation to the great office of governor a new order prevailed, efficient and faithful employes were removed without charge or cause, except to make room for others, no reason being advanced save the new appointees were kinsmen or political supporters.

Politics Back Again.

What the board asserted for four years, that political favorites had no place in these institutions, no longer is true. The people of our state and many employees at all of these institutions know this is now the fact. It must inevitably reflect itself in the attitude of staffs at these institutions. The spirit, if not the letter, of the law was flaunted and Missouri has stepped backward to the old order; your party's pledge and mine put under foot.

I cannot longer continue on the board feeling and believing as I do, and I herewith tender my resignation as a member of the state eleemosynary board, effective at once.

Floating College Will Carry Students Around the World

(Christian Science Monitor)

New York, May 9.—A floating college with the wide world for its campus will set out this fall from New York City with 450 American college boys to cruise the seven seas under the auspices of New York University.

An 18,000-ton liner, which will be rechristened the "S. S. University," will sail on Sept. 25 in charge of Prof. James E. Lough, dean of the division of extra-mural teaching of New York University. On this tour, lasting 240 days, the vessel will go first to Cuba, then through the Panama Canal to Honolulu and on around the world, visiting five continents, 35 countries and 50 foreign ports.

At each point the students will have an opportunity to visit the cities and ports of the countries, passing some time in Palestine, Turkey and Greece, and two weeks in Italy, England, France, and Germany. The students will carry on their regular college courses while on the tour, professors from a number of co-operating universities making up the faculty.

The tour is open to students in any college in the United States who are following courses in history, economics, comparative government, philosophy, geology, oceanography and commercial geography. The courses will be arranged so that there will be a practical application of the lectures at each place visited.

Arrangements will be made, it is announced, so that the ship will be comfortable for such a long voyage, and opportunities will be available for the students to meet officials in the various countries visited. In many places, it is announced, they will be received officially by government representatives.

TRUTH

"HANDSOME is as handsome does!"

And it's true as true can be—
True of you, and true of me—

Will believe it's also true
In this world of Will and Won't,
"Handsome ain't as handsome don't!"

CAPTAINS FOR EACH MATCH

APPOINTED FOR SUCCESS OF ASSOCIATION TOURNAMENTS.

TOURNEY IS CONTINUED

Will Close Sunday, May 17, According to Golf Committee—Team for Tomorrow Uncertain.

The tournament committee of the Maryville Country Club has decided to adopt the plan used by a majority of the other clubs in the Association to insure the successful handling of the Maryville golf team for this year in the I.-M. Golf Association tournaments.

Captains have been appointed for each game on the schedule and it will be the duty of each captain to pick the team and attend to the minor details of the match. The captains chosen and the dates for the matches in which they will be in charge are:

Dr. H. S. Dowell, May 24; F. P. Reuillard, June 14; R. C. Seal, June 21; C. G. Vogt, July 5; Eugene Yehle, July 19; Ed Dale, July 26; and Uel W. Lamkin, August 2.

Forrest Gillam says that committee wishes all captains to pick their team regardless of their ranking as players, but with the idea of having as many members of the club as possible participate in the Association tournament. The directors of the Golf Association have declared that the Association is not a competitive organization, but rather an effort at getting the greatest number of members of every club acquainted.

The captains, according to Mr. Gillam, will be expected to play. The committee has also devised a plan whereby the transportation costs will be divided equally among the members of the team. The captain for each trip will be familiar with the plan.

The Match Play tournament, that has been in progress since May 1, and scheduled to close tomorrow, has been continued until May 17, inclusive, according to the golf committee this afternoon. The time limit has been extended due to the unfavorable weather prevalent the last week.

All are requested to either play their matches this coming week so that the scores may be ascertained immediately following May 17 and the ranking of the players established.

The team that will go to Clarinda tomorrow to participate in the first match of the I. M. tournament had not been definitely named early this afternoon.

A NEW RECORD BY COCKAYNE

FOUR OTHERS ESTABLISHED AT CAMERON MEET.

MARYVILLE 8 POINTS

Coach H. G. Ebert Takes 6 Men To Last Track Meet of Season for the Spoofhound Track Team.

In spite of a pounding rain which softened the cinder lanes Porterfield Cockayne, Spoofhound track man of the Maryville High School, set a new record in the 440-yard dash in the fifth annual invitation scholastic meet held at Cameron yesterday under the auspices of the Missouri Wesleyan College.

The Maryville track team annexed 8 points and Joy of Ravenwood took two points, placing third in the 220-yard low hurdles.

Liberty won the meet with 32 points, Cameron second with 22 and Lathrop, entering only three athletes, took 18 points for third place.

Coach Ebert took six men with him yesterday to the Cameron meet. Beside Cockayne taking points Robey was fourth in the quarter mile. The other men did not place. They were Westfall, Aley, Anderson and P. King.

Joy of Ravenwood was not up to his usual standard and failed to carry off the field events he would have probably done if the field had not been so muddy. He came in from the races and was the last one to compete in the high jump and pole vault. Those that placed in these events made their jumps before the rain made jumping hazardous.

The Cameron meet was the last one for the Maryville athletes this year.

Cockayne ran an easy race in the quarter mile, although not in the best of condition, and was not forced in the last one hundred yards. Had the track been better and competition keener he might have reduced his time.

The records established yesterday:

Wilcox, Liberty, lowered mark in 100 yard dash to 10:1; Thomas of Carrollton, set a record of 16 1-5 in the high hurdles; Cockayne made a new mark of 53:4 in the 440; Endicott of Liberty lowered the time in low hurdles to 26 3-5 and Wiley of Cameron ran the half for a record of 2 minutes 4 2-5 seconds.

Cockayne came in second in the 100 yard dash.

The summary:

100-yard dash—Won by Wilcox, Liberty; Cockayne Maryville, second; Scott, Mirable, third. Time, 10 1-5 seconds.

One-mile run—Won by C. Miller, Lathrop; Klepper, Cameron, second; A. Miller, Lathrop, third. Time, 4 minutes 51 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Thomas, Carrollton; Endicott, Liberty, second; Scott, Mirable, third. Time, 16 1-5 seconds.

220-yard dash—Won by Wilcox, Liberty; M. Scott, Mirable, second; Powers, Bucklin, third. Time 23 seconds.

440-yard dash—Won by Cockayne, Maryville; Offut, Cameron, second; Sweat, Pattonsburg, third. Time, 53 4-5 seconds.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Endicott, Liberty; Thomas, Carrollton, second; Joy, Ravenwood, third. Time, 26 3-5 seconds.

Half-mile run—Won by Wiley, Cameron; Hartell, Plattsburg, second; Sweat, Pattonsburg, third. Time, 2 minutes, 4 2-5 seconds.

Mile relay—Won by Plattsburg, (Mayse, E. Scearce, Amos L. Scearce) Time, 3 minutes, 46 2-5 seconds.

Half-mile relay—Won by Liberty (Endicott, Albright, Holand, Wilcox). Time, 1 minute, 40 seconds.

Broad jump—Won by Endicott, Liberty; Wilhoit, Hamilton, second; Power, Bucklin, third. Distance 18 feet, 10 inches.

High jump—Won by Endicott, Liberty; Campbell, Savannah, second; Wright, Carrollton, third. Height, 5 feet 1 inch.

M. M. B. C. Will Open Tarkio's Big Event

Planning for a Big Delegation to Accompany Team—All in Readiness for Mother's Day Game Tomorrow

Plans for the opening of the baseball season at Tarkio are progressing forward, according to the Tarkio Avalanche, and the Maryville Merchants' Baseball Club has been booked for the first game of the season there on May 19.

In connection with the first baseball game "The Mikado" will be staged for which elaborate preparations are now being made.

Tarkio always plans a big time for the opening of the baseball season and the ball club is ably supported. Information from there is to the effect that the baseball field is being put in shape and the players have had several workouts on the new diamond. Considerable new material for the Tarkio team has been procured and showing up well and the indications point to a good supply of players.

The backers of the M. M. B. C. are eager to have a big delegation on hand with them for the game at Tarkio next week and feel that if the game at Tarkio could be annexed would be a big boost for the local merchants' team, as the Tarkio club is hard to beat and ably supported.

It may be possible that a delegation can be gotten up, along with a band, to accompany the team to Tarkio, May 19.

For the game tomorrow Bob Liley, manager of the M. M. B. C., has named Claud Wilson as umpire. The visitors will supply an umpire for bases. The game tomorrow with Rock Port is the Mother's Day game, to which all mothers are extended an invitation to be guests of the M. M. B. C.

Joy and Buhler will start as the Maryville battery. Heine Buhler will be on hand to relieve Joy if necessary. The rest of the team will probably be the same as has started the other games.

CLARIFIES BAD CHECK LAW

AMENDMENT ELABORATES ON DEFINITION OF OFFENSES.

A FEW CHANGES MADE

Intent to Defraud Clause is Made More Comprehensive—Prosecution Difficult Because of Wording.

The amendment to the Missouri bad check law, signed last week by the governor and effective now, elaborates on the definition of the offenses the law is intended to correct.

The need of an adequate bad check law is felt greatly by a number of mercantile houses. Last year the bad checks accepted by the Kansas City stores which are members of the Merchants Association amounted to almost $100,000, Charles Z. Coffin, manager, said yesterday.

But Little Change In Law.

The old law covered the single offense of making a check against a short account or where there is no account. The law as it now stands (the added wording in capitals) is:

Any person who, with intent to defraud, OR WITH INTENT TO PROCURE ANY ARTICLE OR THING OF VALUE OR FOR THE PAYMENT OF ANY PAST DEBT OR OBLIGATION OF WHATSOEVER FORM OR NATURE shall make or draw or utter, or deliver any check, draft or order, for the payment of money, upon any bank or depository, knowing at the time of such making, drawing, uttering or delivering, that the maker has not sufficient funds in, or Credit with such bank or other depository for the payment of such check, draft or order, in full, upon its presentation, shall be guilty of misdemeanor, and punished by imprisonment for not more than one year or by a fine of not more than $1,000 or both fine and imprisonment.

Section 2—As against the maker or drawer thereof, the making, drawing, uttering or delivering of a check, draft or order, payment of which is refused by the drawee, shall be PRIM FACIE evidence of intent to defraud and of knowledge of sufficient funds in, or credit with, such bank or other depository, provided such maker or drawer shall not have paid the drawee thereof the amount due thereon, together with all costs and protest fees, with in five days after receiving such notice and such check, draft or order has not been paid by the drawee.

Section 3—The word credit as used herein, shall be construed to mean an arrangement or understanding with the bank or depository, or the payment of such check, draft or order.

Phrase Raises Fine Point.

The phrase "with intent to defraud" causes hesitancy on the part of collectors who desire to prosecute offenders because many persons plead that they received the worthless check as a good one from the drawer, whereas they really wrote them. To omit the phrase would cause unjust injury to persons who unintentionally overdraw their accounts, credit men say.

The Missouri law has one saving grace: If after five days from date of notification to the drawer that his check has been dishonored and he fails to make it good, that is PRIMA FACIE evidence of fraud. In many other states ten days is allowed.

Return to Mandamus Writ Is Filed Today

Judge Jesse F. Robertson Prays Court To Have Alternative Writ Quashed and Annulled.

Judge Jesse F. Robertson, respondent in the mandamus suit of the State of Missouri, ex rel., Eva L. Bartles agains Jesse F. Robertson, Judge of the Nodaway County Probate Court, filed a return to alternative writ of mandamus before Judge John M. Dawson in circuit court this morning. Judge Dawson set May 23 as the day for the hearing.

Day before yesterday Judge Dawson issued a mandamus writ against Judge Robertson to appear in circuit court today to show cause why E. E. Williams should not be appointed as curator and guardian of the estate of Eva L. Bartles, minor, age 19 years, of near Parnell.

Judge Robertson in his return states that the alternative writ should be quashed and annulled and not made permanent in eight different counts, the main reasons being:

Denial of the fact that Albert Wilson was appointed as curator and guardian of the estate of Eva L. Bartles without her consent, but that her mother, Ozella C. Bartles, is and has been her natural guardian. Mr. Wilson is the curator and Mrs. Ozella C. Bartles her guardian.

That on June 23, 1920, Mrs. Bartles was designed and appointed curator of Eva L. Bartles and gave bond and that in April 1924, the sureties on the bond of the curator, Mrs. Ozella C. Bartles filed a petition in the probate court alleging waste of estate and misconduct on the part of the curator, and asked to be released from bond, which petition was granted. Mrs. Bartles could not furnish other bonds and Albert Wilson was appointed as curator with the consent of Eva L. Bartles, and also for her minor sister, Mary. He gave bond and was approved and is now in control and possession of the estate.

Judge Robertson states that the relator having requested one curator is not entitled to apply for the appointment of another.

Judge Robertson states that the estate belongs to both minors and the land is inseparable and impossible to to segragate and also that Mr. Williams is not familiar with the circumstances of the proposition. That he is designed as curator and guardian by McCaffrey & Cook, attorneys for Ray Bartles, who has legal title to lands upon which the minors hold a mortgage and Ray Bartles is endeavoring to prevent the minors, Eva L. and Mary Bartles from acquiring possession of lands in which they have an interest.
